

Fine Portraiture

Here is your golden opportunity to really annoy your family, friends, pets, and maybe even a few strangers!

Go take portraits.

Work inside. At work, (Annoy anyone you like, but the boss!) at home, at church. Try to get good, controlled, flattering shots of people. Use flash, or use existing light, or use both. Remember portraits are not candids!

Work outside. Go to the park, the waterfront, the beach, the back yard, the Post Office parking lot; take a friend or a pet on a walk and stop here and there for a few posed shots.

Don't take it too seriously. Have fun with it. Better portraits come from people who are enjoying it.
